

ROB GREENLY

- Certified Professional Coach
- Certified Physician Development Coach
- Past Human Resources, Leadership, and Organizational Development leader and executive

Rob Greenly applies twenty years of corporate experience and almost ten years as a coach and consultant to help his clients maximize their leadership and organizational potential. He works with senior leaders in biopharma, health care, high tech, higher education, research & development, investments, defense and other industries as an executive coach, facilitator, trainer, and organizational effectiveness consultant. Rob is a Certified Professional Coach and a Certified Physician Development Coach.

Rob leverages astute insights and lessons learned from holding leadership positions in his field. They include Chief Administrative Officer for Human Resources at Putnam Investments, Vice President of Leadership and Organization Development at Boston Scientific, Director of Leadership at the MIT Sloan School of Management, Director of Organization Development and Training at Astra Pharmaceuticals, Principal Consultant in Digital Equipment Corporation's Management Sciences Group, and Senior Consultant with McBer and Company.

Rob has presented at national and local conferences on a range of management and leadership topics. The Wall Street Journal and Boston Globe quoted him and Fast Company magazine's website featured him. In addition to delivering leadership workshops at the MIT Sloan School of Management, Rob has been a guest lecturer at several colleges. He co-authored "Command Effectiveness in the U.S. Navy."

Rob earned his bachelor's degree from Harvard College and his MBA from the Yale University School of Management. He is a leader in several professional organizations. A native of Beaufort, South Carolina, Rob resides in the Boston area with his wife and two daughters.